Newspaper Read

Must Be Paid For.

That a newspaper that is left at man's home and read must be paid for, and that the fact that the newspaper was "not ordered" does not constitute a valid relief from indebtedness was held by aljury in the Circuit Court this week when judgment for $30.30 was returned in favor of A. T. Ankrom, against W. E. West. Plaintiff sued for subscription to the St. Louis Republic from July, 1910, to September 1914, at the rate of 65 cents month.

According to testimouy at the trial, West had subscribed for a certain period when the Republic was conducting some sort of a contest. West subwith a rich deposit of disseminated who was one of the contestants. When 118 subscription expired he continued to receive and read the newspaper, though it had not been ordered longer than the time stated in the subscription given to Miss Houston .-Mexico Intelligencer.
